Allen Calls for Defeat of Draft Measure As Article of Compulsion, Regimentation

Governors With Ideas

While President Truman's touring California, California's Governor Warren is touring the East. Here he's in a huddle with another Governor, New York's Tom Dewey, right—at Governor's Conference in New Castle, N. H. With the Republican convention coming up next week, you can guess what they were talking about; both have an eye on the G.O.P. nomination. (NEA Telephoto)

Reciprocal Trade Pact Is Sent to White House

House Accepts Amendments Tacked On by Senate; Gives Authority to Recognize 'Perils' as Check Upon President's Power

Washington, June 15 (AP)—Congress passed and sent to the White House today a Republican-sponsored bill extending the reciprocal trade agreements act for one year with some changes in its provisions.

The House completed Congressional action, passing the tariff bill by voice vote after accepting amendments tacked on by the Senate in adopting the measure yesterday.

In approving a one-year extension and changing provisions of the act, the Republican-dominated Congress again disregarded recommendations of President Truman.

The administration had asked for a three-year extension of the reciprocal trade measure without changes. Unless Mr. Truman should veto the G.O.P.-sponsored bill, it will revive the trade agreements act which expired Saturday midnight.

Urging renewal of the act on "as is" basis, Secretary of State Marshall had told Congress any other action would cripple America's global economic leadership.

The Republican-backed bill gives new authority to the Federal Tariff Commission to recommend "peril points" beyond which the commission feels the President should not go in making agreements. The commission would have to make such reports within four months after it is called upon to do so.

The President could disregard these recommendations but would have to tell Congress why he did so within 30 days.

A provision in the original House bill giving Congress "veto power" over agreements when the President overrode Tariff Commission recommendations was stricken from the bill by the Senate. The House accepted that action.

C.I.O. Maritime Sends Out News

Members Are Told Strike Is Off; 5 Unions Hit Hard at Truman

New York, June 15 (AP)—The threat of an immediate nationwide maritime strike petered out today in the wake of injunctions obtained by federal attorneys in New York, Cleveland and San Francisco.

The C.I.O. National Maritime Union, largest of seven unions involved in disputes with shipowners, was the first to capitulate to a court order.

Union officers sent out instructions to all members directing that they obey an order from Federal Judge John W. Clancy in New York ordering both sides in the dispute to maintain the status quo for a period of 10 days, with a further hearing set for June 18.

Judge Clancy's order covered the east and gulf coasts. Similar orders covering the west coast and the Great Lakes were issued by federal judges in San Francisco and Cleveland.

In San Francisco, five maritime unions last night denounced the restraining order as "a straight out strike breaking attempt for which President Truman must take full and odious responsibility."

Although the restraining orders issued by the courts directed the opposing factions to maintain the status quo for ten days, U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey said in New York that the 80-day cooling off period fixed by the Taft-Hartley law began with the signing of the temporary injunction.

This section of the act never has been interpreted specifically by the courts.

The injunctions were applied for on order of President Truman who acted on receipt of a report from his fact-finding board.

N.M.U. President Curran's order to union members to obey the injunction was backed up by the New York membership of the President Blamed for Rail Stymie

Truman 'Insistence' Is Cited by Glover as Cause of Failure of Mediation

Backs Statement

Locomotive Men's Head Supports Stand, Says Assurance Likely

Washington, June 14 (AP)—A. J. Glover, a railroad union leader, today blamed President Truman for the failure of negotiations to settle the railway labor dispute.

Glover, president of the A.F.L. Switchmen's Union, told a Congressional committee that Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman told union chiefs at a White House meeting on May 7 that Mr. Truman "insisted" they must accept the recommendations of an emergency board.

Appearing before the Joint Committee on Labor Management Relations, Glover said: "We think a settlement could have been made in these mediatory conferences with Dr. Steelman, except for the attitude of the President."

To prevent a strike by the engineers, firemen, and switchmen, Mr. Truman seized the railroads on May 10 and the government got a court order against the walkout.

Glover said that A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, settled with the railroads in November and shortly afterward "was reported by the press as meeting with the President of the United States at the White House."

He continued:

"Naturally I can not know the purpose of that meeting, but it has created a great deal of speculation. Business Week on May 15, 1948, carried this article:

"'Behind the rail seizure is a tangle of Presidential politics and union politics. A. F. Whitney's trainmen has been raiding the A.F.L. switchmen and Robertson's enginemen brotherhood. That's why these unions felt forced to hold out for more than Whitney settled for. But when Whitney agreed to call off his feud with Truman and support him for reelection, Whitney exacted a promise—that Truman wouldn't let Whitney's rivals get a better settlement.'"

Glover then added: "Regardless of union politics, we think these cases should be settled on their merits and Presidential politics should not in any way, influence the final settlement."

David B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, backed up Glover's account of the White House talks. He said:

"Evidently the railroads received some encouragement in their position as it was made very clear to us during our meetings with Dr. Steelman that his mediatory efforts had been circumscribed by the President of the United States to the extent that any agreement reached must be within the confines of the Emergency Board report."

Committee Proposes Millions For Alaska Defense, Materials

Senate Works on Cash

Appropriations Are 'Must' Measures for Various Government Needs

Washington, June 15 (AP)—The Senate struggled today to blast loose a $16,500,000,000 log-jam in appropriations.

The big money bills piled up in the last-week adjournment rush—all of them are "must" measures that cannot be ignored.

On top of the heap is the $41,000,000 government corporations bill which includes the controversial $4,000,000 Tennessee Valley Authority steam plant to generate electricity.

Others include the $6,609,937,000 Army-Air Force bill, $3,812,170,250 for the Navy, and $6,125,700,000 for foreign aid, including the Eurogean Recovery Program.

The T.V.A. bill hit the Senate floor last night with a verbal bang. Before Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.) could place the bill formally before the Senate, an argument broke out between friends and foes of the proposed steam plant.

When it became obvious no agreement could be reached, the bill was passed over until today. First, however, the Senate had to act on a long-range farm bill which had been given top priority for today.

Far into last night, a Senate appropriations subcommittee worked on the Army-Air Force measure. Both Army Secretary Royall and Gen. Omar Bradley pleaded with the senators to restore $492,000,000 cut out by the House. This bill was due to reach the Senate late today.

The foreign aid measure also was expected to be presented to the Senate during the day. It contains the E.R.P. funds and aid to Greece, Turkey, China, Japan and Korea. The Senate committee put the program on a 12-month basis and restored most of the House cuts in effect put back some $1,175,000,000 while still holding the total to $408,000,000 less than the White House asked.

The Navy bill has had final Senate committee approval and may go to the Senate some time during the day.

The chamber got a start toward clearing away the appropriations jam yesterday by passing a $641,000,000 civil functions bill and a record $442,179,093 Interior Department bill.

The civil functions measure—a compromise of Senate-House versions—went to the White House conference committee which will iron out a $66,487,507 difference in the bills passed by the two Houses. The Senate added that amount to the bill previously passed by the House.

Six Millions for Pacific Flood Repair Work Recommended for Area

Washington, June 15 (AP)—New millions for defense projects in Alaska and for stockpiling strategic war materials were recommended today by the House Appropriations Committee.

In a $485,196,951 appropriation bill—cut $113,135,144 below the amount President Truman had asked—the committee:

1. Approved $300,000,000 in cash and $300,000,000 in contract authority for the purchase and stockpiling of critical and strategic national defense materials. This compares with cash of $360,000,000 and contract authorization for $375,000,000 requested by the President. Funds for the future contracts must be appropriated later.

2. Granted $32,700,000 of a $40,000,000 request for continuation of army construction projects in Alaska.

3. Approved $47,983,200 in cash and $50,000,000 in contract authority for navy public works construction, this including major defense installations in the Aleutians and Pacific areas, is a cut of $2,016,800 in cash and $16,500,000 in contract authority.

4. Approved $3,000,000 in cash and $5,000,000 in contract authority for construction of a commercial airport at Anchorage, Alaska. The President had asked $4,000,000 in cash and $9,000,000 in contract authority.

5. Cut from $900,000 to $600,000 funds for use of the secretary of commerce in carrying out voluntary industry agreements under the 1947 Anti-Inflation Law.

6. Recommended $6,000,000 for emergency flood repair work in the Columbia River Valley. Another $500,000 was approved for disaster relief there and elsewhere as it might be needed.

The committee also approved $1,915,000 for United States participation in the World Health Organization, and $25,400,000 to help stamp out foot-and-mouth and other contagious animal diseases.

It also added, at the last minute, a $131,400 allotment for stationery allowances for House members.

Last of the big money bills of the 80th Congress, the measure is scheduled to go to the House floor tomorrow for debate.

The committee voted the sum to stock pile strategic war materials after Thomas J. Hargrave, chairman of the Munitions Board, testified the nation is two years behind schedule in stockpiling. He said it probably will take seven years to attain the goal instead of the five contemplated in 1946.

The committee explained its $135,000,000 cut by saying it has "some apprehension that the program is lacking the degree of planning, forethought and coordination which should be an integral part of any such large-scale expenditure."

The group also cut $230,000 from a $680,000 request of the

State Equalization Rate for Kingston May Be 43½ in '48

Mayor Announces Figure Set After Survey; Last Year's Was 75 Per Cent

A survey made by the New York State Department of Taxation and Finance, Bureau of Local Assessments, has been completed in Kingston and a similar survey is now being made in the towns of the county to ascertain facts upon which the state may fix its rates of assessment for the towns, city of Kingston and villages of the county.

The City of Kingston which was given a 75 per cent rate in the state tax table last year will probably be given a considerably lower rate, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk disclosed today. The survey in Kingston which has been completed indicates that the rate for the city may be as low as 43½ per cent. At least that is the rate which state investigators may propose to the department. That rate, however, will not be the final recommendation of the State Department until it has been reviewed by the Tax Department.

In disclosing that the city of Kingston may expect a deep cut in its equalization rate by the State Department, Mayor Newkirk pointed out that the investigation by the State Department was conducted and its recommendations

Discussion Held At Cairo on What To Do in Palestine

Bernadotte Will Confer With Arab Leaders, Then Go Thursday to Tel Aviv

Cairo, June 15 (AP)—The Arab countries' political delegates and army chiefs of staff met here today. Arab League Secretary-General Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha said their purpose was an "exploratory discussion" of the Palestine problem.

Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator, returned from Rhodes today. He plans to meet with the Arab leaders here and then go to Tel Aviv Thursday to confer with Jewish authorities before returning to his Rhodes headquarters.

The Holy Land continued mostly quiet on the fifth day of a truce arranged by Bernadotte to pave the way for negotiations toward lasting peace there.

The Arab League political and military committees met together for five minutes and then the military leaders withdrew to a separate meeting.

Before the joint session, the secretary general told reporters the political committee was waiting for Bernadotte's reply to Arab charges of Jewish truce violations.

He said the mediator has not proposed formally to the Arabs any roundtable Arab-Jewish conference, though he may have made verbal hints to some representatives." He would not forecast Arab action on any such proposal.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, Bernadotte's assistant on Rhodes, sidestepped a yes-or-no answer whether a roundtable meeting was thought possible. But he asked.

"What difference does it make how the talks are conducted if they end in peace?"

A mediation staff man on Rhodes said last night neither side reported any truce breaking yesterday. He remarked, "this was the first day we have heard nothing since the truce began."

The Moscow radio, heard in London, said last night the British are allowing ex-Nazis in Austria to be recruited for Arab armies.

It quoted and commented in an Austrian newspaper report that former German officers were being recruited for the Arab Legion in two cafes in the British sector of Vienna and that other ex-Nazi soldiers, including airmen, were being directed by letter to a recruiting station in the Italian Tyrol.

"It's fantastic that Britain would serve as a recruiting agent for the Arab Legion," said a British Foreign office spokesman. He denied the report as imaginary.

President Demands Congress Stay in Session And Gets Brushoff From Both Houses

Washington, June 15 (AP)—President Truman's demand that Congress stay in session to enact a controversy-laden eight-point program got a brisk brushoff from Republican leaders today. They held firm to their plans to close up shop on Saturday.

"Nothing new," snapped Senator Taft of Ohio after looking over this list of "very serious situations" the President outlined in a Los Angeles address:

Price control, housing, health insurance, aid to education, social security expansion, labor welfare, a long range farm program and water resources developments.

"I think when we get through here the people will be well satisfied with the record of constructive legislation," said Taft, chairman of the Senate's Republican Policy Committee and a candidate for his party's presidential nomination.

House Republican Leader Halleck of Indiana said the President "still demands bureaucratic price controls and rationing — these twin destroyers of production."

He added that Congress is licking the problem of high prices by steps to boost production and by cutting government costs and taxes.

But while thumbs are definitely down on any return to price controls, there appeared to be at least a 50-50 chance that Congress would send a housing bill to the President before it quits.

This bill might even contain the controversial provisions for government-financed low-rent dwellings, slums clearance subsidies and farm home aids.

Chairman Allen (R.-Ill.) called an afternoon session of his Rules Committee to decide whether the housing bill should be given a green light for House action.

This was in the face of Mr. Truman's statement at Los Angeles yesterday that he doubted Allen's committee would clear the bill.

The President said Chairman Wolcott (R.-Mich.) of the House Banking Committee "got the surprise of his life" last Thursday. That was when 11 Democrats and three Republicans teamed to write into Wolcott's substitute housing bill the major provisions of the Senate-approved Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill, including public housing, slums clearance and farm home aids.

But the President said he thinks the chairman of the Rules Committee, which now has the housing bill, is a little tougher. Allen may fool him. While not

Ellenville Opens Aid for Children

Ellenville, N. Y., June 15 (AP) Arrival of a three-year-old girl from Scotland to live with her mother here has signaled the opening of this village's American Overseas Aid-United Nations Appeal for Children Drive.

Tiny Marie Henrietta Bullis, whose mother came to this country some time ago, was dazed by the turnout of villagers who greeted her on her arrival yesterday. The child had flown from Glasgow to New York city.

Standing by the child's side, Dr. Aake Ording, director general of U.N.A.C. told the crowd:

"Marie is too young to talk, but if she could tell you what it is like to be a baby in Europe today, you would give everything within your means —and then some."

Gold, Rahm Cases On Monday Slate In County Court

Innocent Pleas Entered on Assault, Larceny Charges; 4 Others Are Arraigned

Six defendants were arraigned in County court Monday afternoon before County Judge John M. Cashin under sealed indictments which had been returned by the May grand jury. Pleas of innocent were entered and the cases will be heard later.

Counsel was assigned to three defendants who had previously pleaded at the time of the presentments.

Abraham Streifer appeared as counsel for Moe Gold, also known as Morris Guralnick, who is charged with assault, first degree, and assault, second degree. Gold, who resides in New York, had previously pleaded innocent to a charge of having assaulted a Kingston woman at a Marlborough tavern last March 21. Mr. Streifer asked for 10 days to make further motions in the case and Gold was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

George Stellar, also known as George C. Rahm, who formerly conducted the Broadway Business Bureau in Kingston, continued his plea of innocent to charges of grand larceny, first degree, and grand larceny, second degree. Andrew J. Cook, Jr., was assigned as counsel.

Eugene McPartland, Brooklyn, charged with grand larceny, second degree, growing out of the alleged taking of a car at Kerhonkson, continued his plea of innocent and Abraham Streifer was assigned by the court as defense counsel. The case was tentatively set down for today at 2 o'clock.

On the call of the criminal calendar the rape, first degree, charge against Fred Kite, Jr., New Paltz, was set down for trial at 2 o'clock on June 21.

Dewey Is Considered Best Bet to Win Nomination

New Castle, N. H., June 15 (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York is the best bet to win the Republican presidential nomination in the opinion of most of the Republican governors attending a national conference here.

An informal poll by the Christian Science Monitor and The Associated Press of 15 Republican governors as to who they thought would win the party nomination showed this:

Governor Dewey, seven; Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, two; Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, one; Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, one.

Three governors of so-called "key" states refused to voice an anonymous opinion.

One sidestepped the question by saying he thought it would be a deadlock and that he had no idea which way the tide would turn.

Among the Democrats, the general feeling was that President Truman would win renomination. But one southern governor said he thought General Eisenhower has an "outside chance."

With the Republican convention less than a week away, the Republican governors were hesitant about making predictions. Most of them did so with the understanding:

"1. My name will be withheld;

"2. This is a prediction rather than necessarily a preference."

The general opinion among Republican chief executives attending the National Governors Conference was that Governor Dewey was out in front—but they all emphasized that they were speaking of his position today.

Several expressed the belief that Governor Dewey had gained considerable strength within recent weeks.

One governor said privately—"and don't quote me"—he thought Senator Vandenberg would be the G.O.P. presidential nominee three weeks ago. Now he thinks it will be Dewey.

Both Dewey and Governor Earl Warren of California—two of the four-announced candidates for the Republican presidential nomination—are attending the conference here but the two naturally were not questioned in the A.P.-Christian Science Monitor poll.

Democratic governors here seem to lean toward the conviction that Senator Vandenberg would eventually be the Republican choice for the G.O.P. presidential nomination. One from the midwest said he was sure it would be Senator Robert Taft of Ohio.

Passage Is Assured by Nightfall

Bitterest Foes Admit Chances of Preventing Adoption Are Almost Nothing

Will Take Time

Months Will Pass Before Machinery of Measure Is in Operation

Washington, June 15 (AP)—House leaders today gave up hope of passing a draft bill by nightfall and aimed for passage tomorrow instead.

House Republican Leader Halleck (R.-Ind.) told newsmen "this bill is too important and too far-reaching to be rammed through in one day."

Halleck said he will ask the House to meet early tomorrow so the bill can be disposed of then and sent to a Senate-House conference.

Debate on the bill opened with a plea by the chairman of the Rules Committee for its defeat.

Washington, June 15 (AP)—The House started debate on a two-year draft bill today with the chairman of its rules committe for defeat of the measure.

The lead off Speaker, Representative Allen (R-Ill.), told the House he is sure that arguments during the debate will convince the members "that this is not a necessary or a good bill."

"We all want national security," Allen shouted. "The question is, do we want national security by the American way or by coercion, compulsion, regimentation and control?"

Allen said "the brass hats" claim the nation faces "a great emergency." If that is so, he asked, who do those who profess to be alarmed "say there is no emergency to keep the Congress here in session?"

"Voluntary enlistments," Allen said, "have not been given a fair trial."

Despite attacks on the bill, it seemed certain the House will pass it.

Republican leaders predicted the bill would be okayed by nightfall. And even the bitterest foes admitted their chances of blocking the measure are practically nil.

It will take more than House approval, however, to start any actual inductions of men 19 through 25.

First, Senate and House conferees will have to compromise minor differences in the two bills.

After that—if the House gets its way on the chief point of dispute—President Truman will have to wait 75 days and then order the draft machinery into motion by a formal proclamation.

Military authorities have estimated they will have to draft some 200,000 men this year and next to reach manpower levels provided for in the bill.

Is Led by Andrews

The fight for passage was led by Chairman Andrews (R.-N.Y.) of the House Armed Services Committee. He termed the legislation necessary to provide "the minimum forces we can afford" to strengthen the nation in its international negotiations.

Leading the opponents was Rep.

It's a Fact

Evidence that "returning boards" of a century and more ago had their problems following the annual spring town meeting is revealed in an entry in the Shandaken town records under date of May 3, 1825: Lyman Todd, James Smith, Jacob Longyear, respectively, took oath to serve as assessors, and, it appearing by the canvass that the votes were as opposite to their respective names, and that Lyman Todd and Jacob Longyear had an equal number of votes, whereupon they both took the oath of office, and James Smith, the next highest, also took the oath, and it appeared on the canvass that no tickets appeared to have a greater number than the names of three assessors, by which the sense of the town was expressed, in consideration of which the three justices of the peace convened and disannulled three of them, L. T., J. S. and J. C. L.; Cornelius Ufappan, James O'Neill and Barnet Elghmey, three of the justices, appointed James Smith for one of the assessors." (so much, then, for the official entry and possibly the longest and most ambiguous sentence on record. If you can dope it out clearly at that reading you are a better man than I, Dungha Din. Just who were the other two men decided upon for the board of assessors opponent seith not; but the members of the returning board certainly did their durndest).

BOOST TO STALIN

A short news dispatch recently, based on a Moscow broadcast, announced that the Soviet government had decided to cut in two the balance on reparation payments due from Hungary and Romania. The announcement came four days after the U. S. House of Representatives had decided to cut the [illegible] appropriation for European aid by more than a quarter.

This was the latest indication that Russian policy is taking a new tack. Earlier [illegible] had reduced the demand for Finnish reparations and had raised wages and increased rations in the Soviet zone of Germany.

In other words, Uncle Joe Stalin has put on a broad smile and is trying to look even more benevolent than benevolent Uncle Sam. And it must be said that the House action gave Uncle Joe a brilliant assist on the play. This raises again the question of whether the House leaders had the least idea of what they were doing when they put through that cut or if, indeed, they comprehend its effect even now.

The average European cannot be expected to know the story behind the cut. He doesn't know that this slash was largely the work of John Taber, head of the House Appropriations Committee, and of Speaker Joseph Martin and Majority Leader Charles Halleck.

He doesn't know that the vote was close, that many members were absent, and that a sizable group fought hard against the reduction to the end. He doesn't know that among the supporters were many whose chief distinction is a willingness to jump through the hoop when the House leaders crack the whip.

What the average European probably thinks—and has a right to think—is that the House is an elected group truly representing the wishes of the people. He probably thinks that the American people now wish to hedge on their promises of help, while the Russian government is backing up its promises of a Communist utopia with some tangible benefits.

It would seem that Messrs. Taber, Martin, Halleck and the rest are as misinformed about the wishes of the American people as this average European we were talking about. For it has been shown clearly and repeatedly that the majority of Americans [illegible] a program substantial enough to [illegible] Europe on its feet and get it off America's back.

Maybe these gentlemen didn't really think [illegible] about Europe, or about our government's problems there. Perhaps they just figured that this is an election year, and that a gesture of economy ought to be worth some votes. So they cut E.R.P. by $1,745,-000,000. That was about an average week's military expenditure by this country in World War II.

Maybe these gentlemen should be reminded again that we are fighting a tough [illegible] bloodless war to save freedom in Europe for the sake of our own freedom. We may not be losing that war today, but we aren't winning it. The vital political battle for Germany seems to be going against us. A friendly French government, which depends much on us, is under attack from two sides.

The flush of gratitude and enthusiasm for the Marshall Plan has subsided. Europe is waiting to see the great promise fulfilled. Meanwhile our opponent, though he may lie [illegible] at times, never rests from his drive to communize Europe. In this atmosphere the gentlemen of the House, through innocence, ignorance or malice, have given their country a major setback in its fight for freedom.

TITANIUM A TREASURE

[illegible] a nuisance, now sought after. This is the story of ilmenite, an ore whose presence [illegible] annoy iron miners in New York's Adirondack mountains. Now the fact that it contains titanium makes it valuable. Titanium is said to be stronger than aluminum or magnesium, and may replace steel and magnesium in airplane and automobile parts. Oxide of titanium is also used in some paints. The particularly attractive feature about titanium is its abundance. It has been called the world's fourth most plentiful structural metal. Usually natural resources as precious as titanium bids fair to be are scarce.

RIDE 'IM, COWBOY

A Southern Democratic states' right group has decided to hold a convention and choose its own presidential nominee if President Truman is nominated. Maybe Mr. Truman will find that those new gift spurs which he promised to use on Congress will have to be applied to the Democratic donkey.

Every household should have a statute of limitations. By this, say a month after minor misdeeds of either spouse, any reference to them should be punishable by a fine.

'These Days'

ROOSEVELT AND TRUMAN

The Presidency of the United States is a tough job under any circumstances, but when, in addition, a man adds to his burdens the role of being someone not himself, of acting a role for which he is fitted neither by nature nor by experience, he cannot but fail. Were Harry Truman to be Harry Truman and not an imitation of Franklin D. Roosevelt, it is altogether probable that he would have retained the popularity that was his during his first year in office.

Roosevelt was extraordinary not in his charm nor in his knowledge nor in his capabilities. He possessed a capacity to make men do what they did not wish to do. He exuded power and success. Few of those closest to him altogether believed in his abilities or in the soundness of his judgments, as the present murrain of memoirs indicates, but they knew that he was able to gain popular if not intimate approval.

His speeches, never written by himself, were trifling documents, as anyone can know who reads them, or better still, listens to them now from N.B.C. recordings. But the public regarded him as a great orator, even though he often said what he did not mean. One need only read the Harry Hopkins memoirs, and to read them against the Roosevelt speeches of the identical period, to discover the discrepancy between the word and the deed. Nevertheless, a large part of the public believed him and still does. To some he is almost a god.

Substance, reality is unrelated to this adulations but the fact of it is beyond doubt. Roosevelt could take the people's money and make a campaign trip without too much concern. Everybody knew that the inspection trip was a fraud, but somehow Roosevelt could get away with the fraud without opposition. He got away with so much without opposition. It fitted his personality and the times.

Harry Truman has a different personality. He is the small man. He lacks the majestic sweep, the broad manner, the assurance that comes from wealth and Groton and Harvard if nothing else. Roosevelt's mother, born among the kingly white folk of Hongkong, had it; for these China Coast white folk lived and ruled like feudal lords and came to believe that those beneath them were vassals to be treated with condescending noblesse oblige. It was easy to tell a lie if it was a lie for a good purpose.

Harry Truman cannot do that. He is the kind of person who always gives himself away or is always found out. Maybe Cal Coolidge was that kind of man, but Cal was wise enough to be Cal Coolidge and not try to be a Theodore Roosevelt or a Woodrow Wilson. He remained himself. He did not hire experts to tell him how to speak what they told him to say. He did not train down his nasal so that he sounded like someone else after the country had become accustomed to him sounding like himself. He had no Sam Rosenman in his entourage to tell him how the Master did it.

Harry Truman might have left a lovable memory of himself in the White House had he never departed from his own personality. Of course, the liberals would not have liked him, for they, often being snobs, only speak of the common man but generally despise him. They would have accused him of being a conservative, which he undoubtedly is by nature; they would have ridiculed him, which they do anyhow.

Whoever advised Harry Truman to try to look like a Stork Club liberal treated him shabbily, for one must be that sort of thing to look it. And the imitation served no purpose, for these pseudo-intellectuals will never be for Truman. First they turned to Eisenhower, then to Stassen, then to Vandenberg and now apparently they are for Austin. But never, never can they be for Truman, for he is really only a simple American, which they dislike.

That is why this "non-political" trip is such a failure. The public senses the fraud and responds accordingly. Harry Truman cannot get away with a fraud. He is too honest at heart.

MEAT A VALUABLE FOOD FOR BABIES

Mothers and grandmothers will be surprised to learn that infants are fed meat not at the age of one year or even six months but at the early age of six weeks. True, they do not have to chew the meat, as it is strained, but nevertheless they are getting meat in their diet at this early age.

That infants and young children need and can eat meat months sooner than was formerly believed has been known for some time, and medical journals, monthly and weekly magazines and daily newspapers are now carrying attractive advertisements showing the value of strained meats in building up and maintaining the strength of infants.

In the "Journal of the American Medical Association," Drs. Ruth M. Leverton, Lincoln, and George Clark, Omaha, Neb., report their results of adding strained meats to the formulas of bottle-fed babies beginning at the age of six weeks and continuing for a period of eight weeks. Thirty-three normal infants were studied; 18 received the strained meat supplement, and 15 did not. The amount of meat mixed with the formula was determined by calculating the quantity necessary to increase the protein content of each infant's formula 25 per cent, and therefore it varied with the strength of the formula and variety of meat used. The meats used were veal, beef, pork and lamb. The amount of strained meat average nearly one ounce daily.

Not only did meat agree with these infants, but also the well being of the infants who received the meat supplement was better than in those who had not received meat. In addition, strained meat not only checked the drop in the amount of iron in the blood which occurs in most youngsters during the first few months after birth, but also actually increased not only the amount of iron in the blood cells as well as the number of blood cells.

The knowledge that strained meats not only agree with infants but also actually stop the drop in the blood which makes the first few months of the baby's life such a worry to mothers and physicians, is most gratifying. That strained meats increase the iron in the blood and the number of cells holding the iron, is a great boon to infants and worried mothers.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington—Congressman Edward McCowen, Ohio Republican, who has fathered the federal-aid-to-education bill in the House, moved, in a closed-door meeting recently, to call a special session of the Education and Labor Committee in order to report the bill out of committee.

He started speaking at 11:59 a. m. Before he finished his motion, the bells rang out the notice that Congress had convened at 12 noon. Technically committees are not supposed to meet while the House is in session, although it is accepted practice to wind up the pending business before adjourning.

But big Max Schwabe, Missouri Republican, didn't give McCowen a chance.

"Mr. Chairman, the House is now in session," he shouted, jumping to his feet. "It is illegal for the committee to sit while the House is in session. I move that we adjourn."

As the meeting broke up, New York's Congressman Ralph Gwinn rushed over to Schwabe, slapped him on the back and congratulated him for his parliamentary maneuver. What Schwabe did was to kill any chance of bringing the education bill to a test vote, since the committee has only one final meeting day before Congress is supposed to adjourn.

Afterward, Speaker Joe Martin breathed a sigh of relief. For Schwabe's action in bottling up the education bill gets Joe and others off the hook. They can continue to blame the Education and Labor Committee.

Note—Last week this column reported Rep. Kelley, Pennsylvania Democrat, as opposed to the education bill because it did not aid church schools. Mr. Kelley now points out that he has introduced a bill giving $5,000,000 aid to nonpublic schools, but that he is for the education bill in any event. Also, Rep. Buck, New York Republican, who was described as being for the education bill if he had the courage to vote against House G.O.P. leaders, now emphatically proclaims that he would be against the bill under any and all circumstances.

Taft vs. Speaker Martin

Senator Taft called at Speaker Martin's office last week with a long list of bills that should be given a hearing before Congress adjourns. He pointed out that it would be bad politics to leave any of these important bills in mid-air.

"We can't make it by June 19," Taft pleaded.

But Martin, now a definite candidate for the G.O.P. nomination against Taft, was unimpressed.

"We can make it over here," he shrugged, referring to the House side of the Capitol. "If you aren't ready to quit on time, that's your concern."

Martin suggested longer hours and harder work, added that nothing on the list was important enough to bring Congress back anyhow.

Note — Afterward, Martin admitted to Republican Congressmen at a private dinner-meeting that the Senate was at a disadvantge because it couldn't control filibusters. If it was necessary for Congress to return, however, he said he preferred to wait until both political conventions are over. Taft has suggested calling Congress back between the conventions.

Tips From Truman Train

President Truman himself is good-natured and philosophical about everything on his tour, bandies jokes with local citizens. . . . In Idaho, he told about a soldier he met in the guardhouse up in Maine during the war. The soldier, he said, was an Idaho G.I. who "preferred the guardhouse to being forced to peel Maine potatoes." In Butte, Montana, Truman was serenaded before his talk by the local high-school band, pride of the community. When he got up to talk, Truman asked the band to play one more number, first saying he was sure most of the crowd came to hear the crackerjack band rather than him. It went over big.

Truman is a good sport at all times. He rode 200 miles in an open car over dusty roads through sparsely settled Idaho . . . At Sun Valley he was the answer to a press agent's prayer. He posed at skeet-shooting, fly-casting, even dangled 50 feet above the ground by a thin cable from the Sun Valley ski lift to the horror of Secret Service men . . . Press agent Steve Hannegan hoped for some good publicity pictures, but when Truman went through every stunt in the "cheesecake routine," Hannegan chartered a private plane to fly the pictures all the way back to New York.

Real-Estate Lobby Dies Hard

G.O.P. friends of the real-estate lobby tried a smart, last-minute maneuver to try to block the housing bill.

Noticing that only four or five Democratic members of the House Banking and Currency Committee were present, G.O.P. Congressman Clarence Kilburn of Malone, N. Y., quickly moved to report out the Wolcott bill minus public housing, slum clearance, and other humanitarian features of the original Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill.

"I object," declared Democrat Wright Patman of Texas. "Some of our colleagues are not present. We should have time to run them up so that they can vote on this."

"It's now 20 minutes to 2 o'clock," ruled Wolcott from the chair. "You can have until 2 o'clock to produce absent members. We vote then."

Representative Boggs of Louisiana and Mike Monroney of Oklahoma jumped into action, rounded up Democratic colleagues and all 11 were on hand to help defeat the Kilburn motion, 14 to 13, with the support of three Republicans—Hull of Wisconsin, Stratton of Illinois and Scott of Pennsylvania.

G.O.P. Congressman Frank Sundstrom of East Orange, N. J., then moved that loans to farm housing be deleted. This put Scott, a city man from Philadelphia, on the spot.

But Scott fooled his G.O.P. colleagues by voting "present," thus defeating the motion by a 13-to-13 tie vote. Again, Republicans Hull and Stratton, both with many farm voters, voted with the Democrats. However the desperate Republicans didn't give up. Representative John Kunkel of Harrisburg, Pa., demanded a reconsideration of the vote, still hoping Scott would switch back to the Republicans.

"Gentleman's motion is out of order," hotly contended Boggs of Louisiana.

Chairman Wolcott agreed that Boggs was right. Kunkel was ruled out of order.

Note — Besides Republicans Stratton, Hull and Scott, who put their country's welfare above party policy, Democrats who deserve a major share of the credit for forcing House action on public housing are Representatives Boggs, Patman, and Helen Gahagan Douglas of California.

Tools for Fish

Goldsboro, N. C. (AP) — Burrell Howell and Albert Vail, Sr., went fishing in Rand's pond, near Clayton. A hallow-ended log floated up to their boat. Howell looked into the hollow end, saw a catfish. Reached in with a pair of pliers and pulled it out. He looked again and there was another. Pulled it out. The fish weighed over two pounds each.

Political Maneuvering Will Reveal Actual Strength of Candidates, Say Within Next 10 Days

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 15 — Within the next ten days the game of political maneuvering that goes on behind the scenes among the delegates to a national convention will disclose the difference between actual claims that have substance and wishful thinking by the friends and supporters of the leading candidates for the Republican presidential nomination.

At this writing, Governor Dewey of New York and Senator Taft of Ohio have approximately equal strength among the delegates for the first ballot or two. The question of how solid or substantial is the strength of each of these two candidates cannot be told in advance by a canvass of delegates. The customary pledges of first and second choices are so hedged with qualifications that it may be said that, as of today, there is no certainty about the outcome at all.

The danger to the Taft forces is that inside their ranks are several influential men who really would like to nominate Senator Bricker. The utmost loyalty to Taft is professed but nevertheless there are indications of a desire to try out Bricker if Taft fails.

It is natural for these conservatives to want to hold the Taft strength intact if the senior Ohio senator cannot make the grade in the first few ballots. Logic, however, would seem to bear out the assertion that if Taft can't win the nomination, then certainly someone more conservative than he—namely, the junior senator from Ohio, John Bricker—might have an even more difficult time corralling a majority.

Once the Taft strength starts to disintegrate — assuming that the Bricker enthusiasts begin to pull it apart—there are chances that some of the Taft group will want to go to Dewey rather than to a "nationalist." Even though the number may be small, it could result in a substantial increase for Governor Dewey and start the "bandwagon" going for the New York candidate.

Only if, after several ballots, the Taft-Bricker strength doesn't go over to the Dewey side and the Stassen delegates remain firm against Dewey will it be necessary for the convention to try a compromise, with Senator Vandenberg of Michigan as the most likely beneficiary.

As of today Governor Dewey has strength which he didn't have a month ago. Victory in the Oregon primary boosted his stock. But whether he has enough to win support from other delegations now on the fence remains to be seen.

The two points of hesitancy about Dewey are these: First, he has given an impression of opportunism which makes many Conservatives fear his administration might become a Republican edition of the New Deal and, second, he is not as strong on the international side as either Vandenberg or Stassen.

The second of these two points might help Dewey, as against Vandenberg, with the "Isolationists" or "Nationalists" of the kind who are behind the Bricker candidacy. In a swing toward Dewey by the delegates who think he would be likely to approve less money for European aid than Vandenberg or Stassen, there is a chance that enough votes might be obtained by the New York governor to win the nomination. At the moment his chances of winning the nomination are at least equal to those of anybody else.

There is much talk of Speaker Martin as a "dark horse." This is based on the theory that, if neither Taft nor Bricker can make the grade, the convention could be stampeded for the speaker of the House.

Many of the "old line" regulars in the Republican Party are living in the past if they think the 1948 convention will nominate either an "Isolationist" or a "Nationalist" or an ultra-Conservative candidate. The convention delegates will lean more toward the "Internationalist" than the "Nationalist" side. The primaries have indicated such a trend. The Stassen vote reflects a considerable internationalism in the party. So does the strength of the Vandenberg group.

The former Minnesota governor could exercise a veto over Taft or Bricker or Martin by holding his delegates together until a nominee is chosen who is satisfactory on international issues. A Vandenberg-Stassen ticket might be hard for the "Nationalists" to accept but it may be a natural reaction from maneuvers to nominate a "Nationalist." The Stassen role may prove most influential and decisive.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, June 14—That is all I said. I said to the guy, "I want a hamburger, rare, on roll, and a slice of pickle" and I didn't say anything about any sloppy slaw or old kitchen garbage so now look at this what you get with the bread all soppy and the hamburger cooked like a heel come off somebody's shoe. I said, "hamburger, rare, please," and that's all I said.

Like last week I pulled up at a place on 87 and it said on the sign behind the counter, "2 pork chops and French fries," so much, so I put a little bet on that number and they must have been cleaning out back there the way it come back. They should have sent it to me in the bucket, not on a plate, dirty old dead lettuce combed out of the sink or somewheres, and scraps of cabbage and tomato and some sour, yellow slop for mayonnaise swimming all over a couple of dumb pork chops like fishing something drowned out of a pond.

What is the matter, anyway, they keep throwing this mess at people when you tell them absolutely you want a hamburger so-and-so, whether it's rare, medium rare or hamburger well, but who said anything about cleaning out under the ice-box? What are they trying to save, the cost of the guy to come around with the collection? What am I, a scab or something, scabbing the job on the boys in the department of sanitation and garbage removal so they can lay off forty, fifty hard-working American citizens, trying to get me to eat it up for them instead, by dumping all that dead slaw on a man's hamburger when you distinctly say, "I just want a hamburger, rare, with dill pickle."

Look at that, will you, look at that.

It don't make a particle of difference even if you tie a string around your finger so you remember to say, "and none of your sloppy old kitchen leavings, either, because I positively want just so-and-so," like whether it's a fried egg on white or ham-and-Swiss on rye. Is there some kind of a new law you aren't allowed to eat a decent meal in the United States of America any more?

If you go into a department store and you say, "I want a suit of clothes, size 36, long in the pants, medium sleeves in a pin stripe," do they go back into the grab bag and haul out all the old rags and scraps from the alteration department and old stockings and drawers and throw them at you and say, "here is your pin stripe suit, the way we always serve it"? And then do they say, "well, yes, maybe it is a 40 instead of a 36 like you ask for but that is our blue plate special for this week and if you don't like it well, where do you think you are, at the Park Lane or somewhere? Particular, aren't you?" And then does the owner say you insulted the dizzy little dope of a crumpet —probably got her mind on a date with some bill of rights dancing student — because you take a look at the waist and you say, "madam, if you don't mind, this is a size forty pants and I asked for 36," but with these bums a hamburger rare means whatever you get and if you don't like it, well, now, friend, just keep your nasty temper under control. Because, friend, it don't make no never mind with us whether you like it or you don't but that ain't going to give you any right to make free with our womanhood around these parts, stranger!

Or suppose you say you want a living room set.

Couch, chair, another chair, china closet, rug and framed picture of Sir Longfellow like when you were in school. You say, "I want this and I want that, and I want red upholstery on this one and mixed on that," but they absolutely just wouldn't think of driving up a junk wagon and dumping a load of old rusty springs and horse-hair and busted old kitchen chairs and tell you it's the specialty of the house and that's the way they always serve living-room soots at their store. And if you don't like it, well just the same, keep your tempo, big boy, because that is the specialty of the maison.

You would suppose it would be just the same about hamburgers or anything, but no wonder those European and the Chinaman and all them think we ought to feed them for nothing forever when every day of the world all over the United States or if you have ever drove across Texas or it makes no difference whether it is Maine, it is always the same the way we spoil good food. Cold slaw. Scraps of dump cabbage, sink-water Mayonnaise and down-hearted old sloppy tomatoes not even good for throwing, dumped all over whatever it was you ordered, and if you said "rare" it will look like a cinder out of hell and if you said "well done" it will be still mooing for its mate or, maybe, probably, barking, from the taste of some of the hamburgers you get in this man's country. If you ask for a shock of bubbon does the guy give it a squirt of old stupid beer out of an old dead bottle from the floor and some leavings of some dame's old dead Tom Collins on the bar while she went to podder the nose and fill it up with the heel of an old scotch with a rancid cigarette butt drifting around in it?

No, you bet your sweet life they treat you like an American deserves to get treated and I didn't go to no war to get my hamburgers well done instead of rare like I ast because some bum can't keep his mind off a four-horse parlay. They used to sell this blue-plate stuff to farmers for the pigs during the war but the pigs couldn't take it so now they force it on patriotic 100 per cent American citizens.

I distinctly said, "hamburger, rare, on roll, and a slice of pickle," and I didn't say nothing about no mayonnaise or old sloppy scrapings from the sink.

And look at what I got.

Assembly Will Vote

Paris, June 15 (AP)—The French Assembly is expected to vote late tonight or tomorrow on the six-power accord to create a separate state of western Germany. France is the only one of the nations whose negotiators evolved the plan which has not approved it. Here, the plan has been under heavy fire from the right and left and approval, if it is given, is expected by a narrow margin.

Wage Committee Votes To Demand an Increase

Chicago, June 15 (AP)—The wage committee of two railroad operating brotherhoods voted yesterday to demand a wage increase of 25 per cent from the nation's Class 1 carriers.

Spokesmen for the unions, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors, said the demand will be served on the railroads on July 1 with the provision that the raise become effective on Aug. 1. They said the unions also expect to ask some rules changes but these will be decided later.

The two brotherhoods, which represent some 225,000 conductors, trainmen and yardmen, received a pay hike of 15½ cents an hour and some rules changes in a negotiated settlement last November. They are not involved in the present wage-rule dispute which led to government seizure of the railroads last month when a strike was threatened by three other operating unions—the engineers, the firemen and enginemen and the switchmen. They had rejected a 15½ cents an hour pay boost.

The strike, scheduled for May 11, was barred by Federal Court action after President Truman's seizure order.

In the Los Angeles area, there are public booths where anybody can get his blood pressure reading for 25 cents.

The South Hills Civic Club of Pittsburgh, Pa., recently held a party at the South Hills Country Club to organize the Children's Cancer Fund of Pennsylvania. About ten years ago the Children's Cancer Fund of New York was organized and has accomplished a great deal in the fight against cancer in children.

My good friend John A. Barry is aiding the cause in Pittsburgh and has interested his brother, Dr. James Barry, who until recently was resident physician of the Children's Hospital in that city.

We played some bridge after the party and today's unusually interesting hand came up. The two Barry brothers were my opponents, but the doctor was the one who handled the play.

I opened the king of clubs, and when it held, I continued with the club ace, which Dr. Barry trumped with the four of spades. He then took two rounds of trumps, and when I showed out on the second round, he did not make the mistake of pulling the other two trumps in my partner's hand.

Instead he led the queen of diamonds and took the finesse, my partner winning with the king and returning the queen of clubs. I knew then that if the doctor made the mistake of trumping this, his contract would be defeated.

But he thought for a while and then calmly threw away the ace of hearts on the queen of clubs. Now if East continued with a club, declarer could trump it in dummy, lead a heart to his hand, pick up the rest of the trumps and claim the rest of the tricks.

Dairymen to Get $4.64 Price, May Milk, Is Report

Sales of Fluid Product Are Below 1947 in Volume for Month

New York, June 15 (AP)—A uniform price of $4.64 per hundredweight (about 47 quarts) will be paid to dairymen in the six-state New York milkshed for May deliveries.

C. J. Banford, market administrator of the New York metropolitan milk marketing area, announced the price yesterday. In May, 1947, the uniform price was $3.54.

The producer butterfat differential for May will be seven cents for each tenth of a pound of fat above or below the 3.5 per cent standard, Blanford said.

Sales of fluid milk last month were 3.21 per cent below May, 1947—a drop from 293,290,595 to 283,872,159 pounds—the administrator reported.

The marketing area, composed of New York city and the counties of Nassau, Suffolk and Westchester, had the sharpest decrease—a drop of 7,935,823 pounds or 2.96 per cent under the preceding May. Only 260,304,623 pounds were channeled into the fluid milk class last month, compared with 268,240,466 a year ago.

The only fluid outlets showing a rise over last year were sales of fluid milk from the New York milkshed to other markets under federal regulation. This was an increase of 23.94 per cent. It was, however, an increase of only 1,347 pounds over the 5,627 pounds sold in this class in May, 1947.

Fluid milk sales from the New York milkshed to non-federally regulated markets fell from 25,014,522 pounds in May, 1947, to 23,560,562 pounds last month, a decrease of 5.93 per cent.

Total milk production in May was the lowest for the month in the history of the federal-state marketing orders, Blanford said.

Receipts last month were 606,179,494 pounds, which was 27,345,465 pounds, or 4.32 per cent, under May of 1947.

A total of 46,176 dairymen, producing at the average rate of 443 pounds a day, produced the 633,524,959 pounds of milk delivered to pool plants in May, 1947. Last month, the average output per farm per day was 434 pounds by 45,079 producers in the pool.

Last month's total production had a farm value of $28,775,410.

Payments at the uniform price will be made for milk testing 3.5 per cent butterfat received at plants 201-210 miles from New York city.

The area of the New York milkshed includes New York state, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Home Nursing Is Taught in Course By the Red Cross

The standard Red Cross Home Nursing Course is primarily a homemaker's course in simple nursing skills, according to information released on the course today.

Through its home nursing classes the Red Cross is attempting to develop self reliance in the homemaker in handling simple illnesses in the home and in understanding the need for expert medical and nursing assistance in cases of a more serious nature.

The homemaker who has had only simple training in home nursing can help the doctor by learning to recognize early symptoms of illness by observing and by recording for his information such details as the elevation of temperature, the appearance of a skin rash or the presence and intensity of pain.

The homemaker can learn to carry out his orders intelligently, how to keep the patient comfortable and clean, how to fill a hot water bottle and how to use it, how to apply a compress, prepare a special diet and carry out communicable disease technic without time consuming questions.

The course is intelligent homemaking applied to the care of the sick in the home and to family health. The course is taught, on a volunteer basis, by nurses who meet Red Cross qualifications in both professional and general education. It is a 24-hour course. The nurse instructor spends approximately half of the class time on demonstrations and on supervising the practice of simple procedures, the other half on class discussions of problems. A certificate, in recognition of the satisfactory completion of the course, will be issued to the students.

Homemakers interested in taking advantage of this free home nursing instruction are asked to call the Red Cross headquarters, 237 Fair street, Kingston, telephone 4038.

In 35 years, the Rockefeller Foundation has spent more than $400,000,000 in virtually every country of the world.

Mother's Crazy Quilt

By FRANK TRIPP

There is wisdom in the proverb that man makes himself an ass if he goes about expounding his dreams. So here goes another whirl at making one of myself—for I had a dream, which I here expound.

At sunrise the buzz of fishermen's reels awakened me in the woods of a priceless fantasy. I was communing with scores of odd-cut little squares of cloth, a quaint, nostalgic interview. I dreamed that I slept beneath a canopy of color, a crazy quilt which my mother made she and her friends.

Then more awake, the illusion was so real that I searched my bed covering for the one bright piece which I knew the best. It was from a little blouse I used to wear.

It was some seconds before I realized that I'm a man now, a father of sons, and that in Anna's room, cushioned my fifth grandchild, reclaimed "Turk" for his great grandmother, she who made the wonderful quilt under which I found I had spent a night I'll long remember.

Why, you sentimental old fool, I thought, as retrospection brought me to my creaking age again. Unwilling to dismiss my reverie, I closed my eyes, relived my dream and I saw mother's patchwork quilt as clearly as I did when just a boy I saw policeman, the checks and stripes and plods of the happy days.

Yes, there was the little blue square, sewed next to the one like mother's pretty dress, against which my head had leaned and learned to say my prayers. There was the denim square from my pop's shirt. He kept he worked in the engine, one of Aunt Lib Peck's aprons, one of Ellie Burgess' sun bonnets, a number that I knew I could find a lot of familiar squares, so often had my mother named them all and told me whence they came; as if by family legend to hand down a directory of friends and kin.

That spell has gone, 'twas stolen, and I think I know by whom. 'Twas a mean theft from an old woman but none can rob me of the precious memories of it which are mine.

Are you old enough to remember how those patchwork quilts got put together at old time quilting parties? Aunt Dinah had one, remember, from which a lovesick swain was "Seeing Nellie Home."

Almost every garment women and their children wore was made at home from piece goods chosen with jealous care. For meetin' gowns and something spruce dressmakers came for a dollar a day and keep. From snatches left, women traded with each other, mostly calicos and ginghams, to give variety to the radiant crazy quilt. When, after many lamplit hours the little pieces were handsewed into a bed sized spread, the date was set for the quilting bee. Friends came in to spend the day.

Sometimes they made a comfortable, like this: First underlining was stretched upon a quilting frame. Next the cotton batts were spread, thick for bitter cold, or thin for milder nights. Then the gorgeous patchwork topside was unfurled. The workers paused to name most every square and tell who wore the dress from which it came, with praise for some or catty words for others' dreadful taste.

The more agile helpers crouched beneath the spreading frame to receive with nimble fingers and return the threads to which the standing ladies tied fuzzy woolen knots on top.

It was quite some task to make a quilt but when 'twas done it packed much more than warmth. It was an autograph of friends by scores, a diary of bygone days, a catalog of olden styles; an heirloom of skill and thrift, a wondrous work of love and tender sentiment yesteryear's valentine.

But alas, Aunt Dinah's quilting party is no more. Today's swain sees Nellie home from a night club—more likely takes her to another.

Talks Postponed

Frankfurt, Germany, June 14 (AP)—By request of the French, the American and British military governors have postponed talks with German leaders here on a west-German federal government. They did so because the French national assembly has not yet approved a six-nation agreement to set up such a government. The assembly ends debate on the matter tomorrow. Paris observers predict approval by a slim margin.

Senate Takes Up Bill

Washington, June 15 (AP)—The Senate took up today a bill to repeal the federal tax on oleo. The vote to take it up was 57 to 26. It came under such circumstances, however, that no final action on the measure seemed likely. The Senate was under agreement to take up long range farm legislation at noon (eastern standard time). That meant the oleo measure would be laid aside at that time if no vote was reached by then. The oleo bill was taken up only about 40 minutes before the noon hour.

It's Expensive—But Is It Art?

Paul E. Mueller, right, shows his lawyer, Harold Gordon, an oil painting he says he was forced to buy for $200 in order to rent an apartment in Evanston, Ill. Financial and Commercial

New York, June 15 (AP)—Demand picked up in the stock market today after prices had wobbled lower in morning dealings.

The increased buying pared widest losses for a number of stocks and in some cases pushed quotations to the plus side. A few issues hit new highs for the year or longer.

Volume was moderate and the ticker tape slowed to a walk more than once.

Among the 1948 highs were Central Railroad of New Jersey (a strong spot yesterday), Radio Corp., Emerson Radio, and Atlantic Refining. Also higher were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Standard Oil (N.J.), Phelps Dodge, Studebaker and Du Pont.

A trifle lower were Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, Cerro De Pasco, General Electric, Owens-Illinois, Southern Railway, Sinclair Oil and Pacific Western.

Packard Motor Car dropped ⅛ when a 14,000-share block sold.

In the curb lower prices were paid for Cities Service, Humble Oil and Pantepec Oil.

Missouri Pacific obligations, recent favorites in the bond market, slid back a bit. U. S. Governments held steady in the over-the-counter market.

Griswold, chief of the American aid program in Greece, said the order was issued by the minister of public order, Constantine Rentis, so the group could be questioned further in the case. However, Press Minister Michael Ailianos declared "absolutely no such an order has been issued." The three affected, Griswold said, are Stephen Barber of the London News Chronicle; Constantine Argyris of the Greek newspaper Vima, who is a correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor; and the widow, 20-year-old Mrs. Rhea Polk.

The couple flew on to Geneva and then motored to Lausanne, where they will continue their honeymoon.

The plan is aimed at taking from 70 to 90 per cent of the present inflated money out of circulation. 122 Puerto Ricans Working on Farms

At present there are 122 Puerto Ricans at Camp Hayden, operated as a farm workers' camp by the Ulster Vegetable Growers Co-operative. This camp is located at Kerhonkson and has been operated for five years by the same group of which Edward Davenport of Accord is president.

The fifth plane load landed at the Poughkeepsie-Dutchess Airport Monday night at 7 o'clock. The men are being recruited and transported by the United Labor Import Company of Philadelphia with the approval of the State Labor Department. The plane was met by Albert Kurdt, secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce and Donald R. Munn, farm placement representative of the Kingston office of the N.Y.S.E.S. The directors gave Mr. Kurdt permission to complete his work with the vegetable growers, which was started while he was county agricultural agent.

There has been some delay in getting the workers this year. Most of them were expected by the first week in June, but one plane load of 28 workers is still due.

Camp Hayden will continue in operation until October 1, and supply workers for the sweetcorn growers of the Esopus and Rondout valleys. Bad weather has seriously retarded planting operations for weeks, some to grow just the same. This the delay in getting workers has been very serious for the farmers.

Committee Places Programs' Blame

Washington, June 15 (AP)—A Congressional committee said today that "unfortunate" broadcasts went out on the "Voice of America" because the State Department was "negligent" and the National Broadcasting Company failed to use "ordinary safeguards."

These conclusions were reported by a House Expenditures Subcommittee which investigated the "Know North America" series broadcast by NBC under contract with the State Department.

A storm arose in Congress last month when Senator Capehart (R-Ind.) read to the Senate transcriptions of some of the broadcasts. They contained such statements as "New England was founded by hypocrisy and Texas by sin."

Bruck Child, 3, 'Fair' At Benedictine Hospital

Nicholas Thomas Bruck, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas L. Bruck, of 203 West Chestnut street, is in the Benedictine Hospital today with injuries which resulted when he fell out of his father's car, the police reported.

The accident occurred Sunday evening when the right front door of the Bruck car opened as the car was turning from Montrepose avenue left into West Pierpont street, according to information given police at 9:50 p. m. Monday by the father.

The child fell to the pavement, sustaining injuries about the head, shoulders and body, according to the report. He was taken to the hospital by his father.

At the hospital X-rays were taken and disclosed no fractures, police said. The child's condition was reported as "fair" today.

Airliner Sets Out With U. S. Livestock

New York, June 15 (AP)—Loaded like Noah's Ark, an airliner set out yesterday from LaGuardia Field for Milan, Italy.

Aboard were seven bulls, two heifers, 50 young pigs, 16 White Leghorns, two Cocker Spaniels, two Scottish Terriers, and an English Setter.

It took more than four hours to persuade some of the animals that they wanted to go to Italy to join cattle breeders near Milan.

The load was sent by the Carnation Farms, of Carnation, Wash. One of the bulls is a gift from the city of Seattle to the city of San Gimiganano.

The stock came from the Carnation Farms; Lee's Hill Farm, Morristown, N. J., and the Hershey Estates in Pennsylvania.

Denial Made That Britain, U. S. Want Middle East

London, June 15 (AP)—A Foreign Office spokesman said today Britain and the United States "have made it clear to each other where their interests lie in the Middle East, including Palestine."

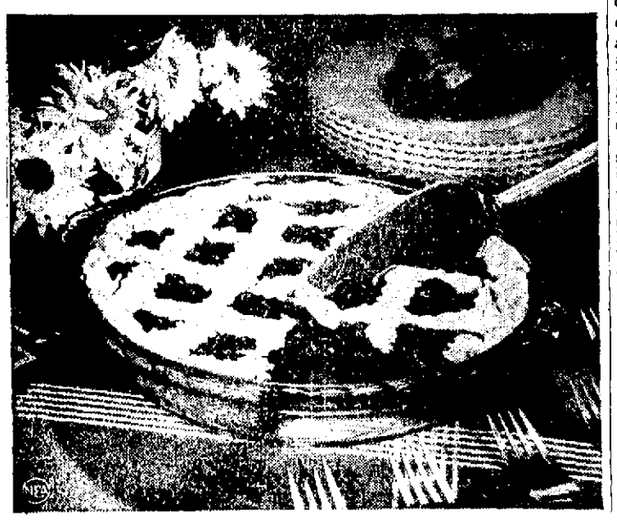

The spokesman denied a report in the Communist Daily Worker that the United States and Britain have concluded an agreement to carve up the Middle East.

The two governments, he said, have reached a "tacit agreement" during a long exchange of views that each will keep the other informed of what steps it proposes to take in the Middle East. He said the exchange began after President Truman recognized Israel, a move which the spokesman said surprised the British.

"It has become quite apparent to both countries that any steps that one takes in the Middle East is of immediate interest to the other," he said.

EAT WELL for Less

GAY PIE TO BRIGHTEN HOLIDAY

Criss cross cherry pie adds gay color to Father's Day or July 4th.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

One of Mother's vivid red cherry pies will turn Father's Day, June 20, into a colorful event. This is a good recipe for Fourth of July too.

Better have steak and French fried potatoes first, for fathers seem to go for that kind of eating. Then lots of pie.

Criss-Cross Cherry Pie
(Serves 6)

Pastry: Two cups sifted flour, 1½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2/3 cup shortening, 5 to 6 tablespoons ice water.

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening until the size of peas. Add ice water a little at a time, using just enough to make dough stick together. Pat into a ball and chill. Roll out 2/3 of pastry and line a 10-inch heat-resistant glass pie plate. Allow edge to extend about ¼ inch above top of pie plate.

Filling: Four cups pitted cherries, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons tapioca, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg; ¼ teaspoon almond extract, 1 tablespoon butter or fortified margarine.

Fill unbaked pie shell with cherries. Mix together sugar, tapioca, salt and nutmeg. Cover cherries with mixture. Sprinkle almond extract over cherries and dot with butter. Roll out remainder of dough and cut into strips. Make lattice work in criss-cross effect across top of pie. Fold edge of lower crust over ends of strips and press into fluted edge of pie plate. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for about 50 minutes.

Individual Cherry Cakes
(Makes 6 individual cakes)

One egg, 2/3 cup sugar, 1½ cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup milk, ¼ cup melted shortening, ¼ teaspoon almond extract, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1½ cups pitted fresh or drained canned cherries.

Beat egg; gradually beat in sugar. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt, and add to egg mixture alternately with milk, beating in each addition thoroughly. Then add melted shortening, almond extract, grated lemon rind and cherries. Pour batter in six well-greased 6½-ounce heat-resistant glass or pottery custard cups. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 35 minutes or until cakes are done. Serve with whipped cream.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, rice griddle cakes, syrup, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Toasted cheese sandwiches, tomato and watercress sandwiches, sliced dill pickles, fresh plums, iced tea, iced chocolate milk.

FATHER'S DAY DINNER: Tomato juice cocktail, broiled steak or broiled chopped sirloin, French fried onion ring, French fried potatoes, green beans with butter and minced parsley, enriched hard rolls, butter or fortified margarine, radishes, raw carrot sticks, celery and ripe olives, criss-cross cherry pie, cheddar cheese, coffee, milk.

President . . .

committing himself, he told reporters: "Everybody wants housing legislation."

On the other hand, Halleck said Congress since 1937 "has been voting against public or socialistic housing," he insisted that since Republicans removed controls over the building industry the construction of new homes has more than doubled.

Along with his reiterated demand for an expanded social security system, Mr. Truman fired a veto at a bill which would bar some 750,000 semi-independent workers from federal old age insurance.

But both the House and Senate quickly overrode the President, making the measure law. It also includes some $184,000,000 a year in higher benefits for the blind and for dependent children.

The President objected to excluding people from Social Security rolls at a time when he wants more added. And he said the increased benefits fall short of needs.

Earlier in the day the House passed by a 237 to 2 vote a bill to put some 3,500,000 more workers under Social Security—mostly employes of state and local governments and non-profit organizations. The measure goes to the Senate, where the session-end jam may mean its death.

Mr. Truman has asked that the coverage be extended to 20,000,000 more persons, that benefits be increased at least 50 per cent and that Social Security taxes be increased.

As for other points in Mr. Truman's list, the House on Saturday approved an 18-month extension of farm price supports in lieu of a long-range bill on which the Senate went to work today.

The Senate has approved a bill for $300,000,000 in federal aid to education but there is little prospect that it will clear the House.

Legislation for a national health program is not docketed for action. Various bills dealing with water resources are pending and are likely to die. There is no disposition to heed the President's call for steps to restore the Labor Department to its pre-Taft-Hartley act status.

Automotive Hint

The speedometer should receive attention once a year to keep it functioning reliably, but, due to its delicate construction, this work should be left to an expert.

Kurdt Is Assisting With Farm Plans

William H. Palmer, recently appointed agricultural agent of Ulster county was in the area all day today, and spent most of the day with Albert Kurdt, the former agent. Due to the lag in employing a successor for Albany county, Palmer will not be able to report for full time work until July 1. He will, however, spend several days in the county this week.

When Kurdt's appointment as secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce took effect on June 1 it was with the understanding that he could spend several days with his successor in the Farm Bureau. Kurdt stated, "the work of the Farm Bureau is about as complicated, if not more so, than the Chamber of Commerce activities. They may be on a par except that the added factor of changing weather make the farm work more difficult."

Boys' Club Party

Robert Pardee, proprietor of Spring Lake, will be host to members of the Kingston Boys' Club for an afternoon and evening of swimming and roller skating on Sunday, June 20. The boys will leave from 21 Clinton avenue Sunday morning. No charge will be made for members of the club.

Stamp Club Meeting

New members will be received into the Stamp Club of the Kingston Boys' Club at their next regular meeting on Saturday, June 19, at 2 p. m. A. S. Fuhrman will lead a discussion on watermarks and perforations.

What Every Big Brother Dreams Of

Big brother Paul Eck, of La Grange, Ill., jumped at the invitation to appear in the La Grange kiddie pet show. He didn't have any real pets, but he had a good idea. Paul dressed up like a wild man, and dressed his young sisters Cynthia and Nancy as "pygmy women." Mother's old furs came in handy. With his caged sisters making ferocious faces, Paul and his pygmies were hit of the show.

Catholic Daughters Report Activities

Court Santa Marie 164 Catholic Daughters of America held its final meeting of the year at the Knights of Columbus Hall Thursday night. Several reports were given and plans for the future discussed.

It was reported that by the close of the season the court will have shipped 25,000 pads to Rosary Hill Hospital, Hawthorne. The making of these pads has taken place every week at the Municipal Auditorium and the court thanks all who assisted. Special mention was made of the many non-members who have been among the most loyal workers on this project.

Junior Catholic Daughters reported four groups working on the spiritual, charitable and recreational programs. The girls have worked for their honors, offered a Mass for His Holy Father, Pope Pius XIII, made scrapbooks and decorative baskets for the hospitals, held bicycle and roller skating parties, and will hold their annual communion breakfast Sunday.

The court voted to offer scholarship prizes to the girl with the highest honors in the six parochial schools of the area.

Plans are being made for a Day of Recollection in October.

Miss Emma Jane Rundalle, outstanding artist, will return for another program when with a supporting cast she will portray "Madame Butterfly."

Reports from the state convention at Lake Placid last month were given by the grand regent. The theme of the convention was "The Home and Youth," pointing out causes of the so-called "juvenile delinquency," and the effects of the lack of responsibility on the side of the parents. There are 210 courts with a membership of 5,000 in the state. They have cohntributed substantially to the appeal for aid of homeless victims by C.A.R.E., checks have supported the motor chapel, the bishops' seminary fund as well as Father Peyton's Family Rosary program.

The first meeting of the fall will be September 9.

FAMILY PARTY

This is a delightful question to answer: "We're going back to my family's home for the first time since we've had a baby son. While there, Mother and we want to give a party so that we can see all of my friends and they, in turn, can see our new baby. Sort of a come-and-go affair. Please suggest the wording of the invitations."

Second Wedding Shower

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct to have bridal showers when one is marrying a second time?

Answer: Not if showers were given at the time for the first wedding. Exceptional situations do alter cases. For example, those of her present friends, who did not know her at the time of her first marriage, could give her a shower now if they would like to do so.

Untidy Roomer

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have a roomer living with us who is very untidy but otherwise very pleasant to have in the house. However, he never leaves the bathroom the way he found it, nor are his clothes picked up in his room. My husband thinks it is up to me to speak to him about this. I think a man should talk to another man.

Answer: I'm sorry, but you as housekeeper are the proper one to speak to him. Simply say that you are sure he does not want to add to your work and won't he please cooperate by picking up his own things.

Correct Dress

Dear Mrs. Post: What is correct dress for the senior boys at their high school senior prom?

Answer: Tuxedos are correct dress, but lacking these, dark blue suits would be the best substitute. Blue coats with white or gray trousers are next best.

Mrs. Post's booklet, No. 502, "The Etiquette of Letter Writing" tells how to begin and close a letter and gives model notes for many occasions. This year the Town of Olive, "the all-year-round playground high in the beautiful Catskills" has issued a twelve page folder handsomely illustrated with scenes from the township. Luzon Awaits Sentence On Larceny Conviction

Lockport, N. Y., June 15 (AP)—John Luzon, 54, of New York city today awaited sentence following his conviction of first degree grand larceny in obtaining money from a lawyer for a false funeral trip.

A Niagara county court jury last night found him guilty after four hours deliberation. Betty Luzon, 23, also of New York city, was acquitted of a similar charge.

The Negro couple were indicted after Mortimer A. Federspiel, former Niagara county district attorney, issued a complaint that the two enguiged him to liquidate a "$800,000 estate." The pair then borrowed $800 for a "trip to a funeral in Grand Rapids, Mich.," the complaint added.

Police said the two were wanted on detainer warrants by police in Poughkeepsie and Dansville; Norwalk, Conn., and East Orange, Hoboken and Morristown, N. J., where they similarly were accused of obtaining funds for fake funeral trips.

County Judge John S. Marsh did not set a date for John Luzon's sentencing. Luzon was returned to jail pending disposition of the detainer warrants from other cities.

The couple was arrested May 3 in Westchester county at the request of Peekskill police.

Few Changes Are Made In Cabinet Benes Had

Prague, June 15 (AP)—President Klement Gottwald swore in the new cabinet of his Communist premier, Antonin Zapotocky, today with few changes in the lineup he forced President Benes to accept last February.

Zdenek Fierlinger, Social Democratic left wing leader who is fusing his party with the Communists June 27, was promoted from minister of industry to deputy premier. He replaced Bohumil Lausaman, secretary of the Social Democratic party, who retires to an industrial post.

Succeeding Zapotocky, trades unions head, as deputy premier is Jan Sevcik, Communist secretary of defense, a Slovak.

The third deputy premier is Viliam Siroky, a Slovak Communist.

The Rev. Joseph Plojhar of the Catholic People's party continued in the cabinet as minister of health.

Reds Halt Traffic On Main Highway

Berlin, June 15 (AP)—The Russians halted traffic temporarily today on the Autobahn linking western Germany and Berlin.

They said the stoppage was occasioned by closure of a bridge across the Elbe for repairs. Later they said signs for a detour around the bridge had not been completed and permitted traffic to continue. They did not say when the bridge would be closed for the repairs.

The span is a makeshift structure built after the original bridge was destroyed in the war.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay said last night the Americans would use the detour.

"Even if they have to drive 300 more miles?" he was asked.

"Yes, I cannot demand the United States go to war just because somebody has to drive 300 more miles."

'Swing' for Dewey

Gardner, Mass., June 15 (AP)—The lieutenant governor of Illinois, Hugh W. Cross, said today that the Illinois Republican delegation would "swing to Dewey" after favorite son balloting for Gov. Dwight Green at the national convention. Cross, a delegate, said in an interview that he thought New York Governor Thomas E. Dewey would be top choice of the delegation but that U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft "might pick up a few votes." Harold E. Stassen, Cross said, had little support among the Illinois Republicans.

Expectant Mother Asks Some Relief

Atlanta, June 15 (AP)—A 38-year-old expectant mother—for the 24th time—appeared at the city's hospital here seeking relief from a backache, acquired while digging a well and building a house.

Mrs. Maud Ethel Pope, whose eldest living child was born when she was 13—she had two who died before then—said the housing problem had been with her nearly all her life.

"Everytime I have another baby," she said yesterday, "the folks we rent from make us move. So I just got tired of the whole thing and decided to buy a lot and build a house.

"Bill—he's my husband—has all he can do working to support us," Mrs. Pope continued, "so I had to do all the work. He helped me lay the first beams because they were too big to tote, but from then on it was my job."

Mrs. Pope began working on the house and well in August of last year. She dug the well some 25 feet deep using just a pick and shovel.

"It was might hard on my neck and back," she commented. The Popes have 17 boys and four girls.

State Equalization

made prior to the announcement recently made by Mayor Newkirk that assessments in Kingston were to be automatically increased this year 33 1/3 per cent in a blanket increase move to bring the city's assessments in line.

Mayor Newkirk pointed out that while the state rate of 43½ per cent had been arrived at by the state investigators before the 33 1/3 per cent increase had been announced locally, this local increase in assessed valuations if applied to the state's table would probably not advance the state's rate beyond 57 per cent.

In arriving at the rate of approximately 43½ per cent the state investigators spotted several properties in each ward of the city and then made an actual appraisal of those properties to arrive at true value. Using these appraisals as a cross section upon which to base other otherty value in the ward, the state arrived at a figure of true value and assessed valuation for all properties in the city. In each ward a score or more of properties were spotted for appraisal.

This same method has been followed in other localities and will be used in fixing rates in the various towns of the county of Ulster. A survey of the towns is now under way in Ulster county and if not completed in time for submission this fall on a county wide basis, in all likelihood the new city rate may not be recommended by the state until the survey is completed for the entire county. To put the city rate in effect before the entire county survey is completed would be out of line and inequitable, Mayor Newkirk stated.

The survey in Dutchess county has been completed and the new rates for the county and the City of Poughkeepsie have been submitted. The proposed Dutchess county rates are far less than rates formerly proposed by the state.

While the state table last year recommended 75 per cent as the rate for the City of Kingston, the rate established by the board of supervisors was 70 per cent.

CLARK MAINS BLANKS SAUGERTIES HIGH, 3-0

Scores Tenth Straight; 6th Shutout of Season

Perhaps the greatest pitcher in Kingston High School history wound up a majestic career on a solid note of triumph in Saugerties yesterday.

While New York Giants scouts looked on, Clark Mains subdued Saugerties, 3 to 0, yielding four hits as he racked up his 10th straight victory of the season and his sixth shutout. He recorded two no-hitters and a one-hitter during the campaign.

Kingston closed its baseball schedule with a sweet measure of revenge over Saugerties and shows a 11-3 record for the 1948 campaign. They were undefeated in DUSO competition, sweeping to their second straight title. The three losses were inflicted by Saugerties, Poughkeepsie and Beacon.

Maroon Ace Sharp

Mains was razor sharp in contrast to his dull performance against Middletown last Friday when four big league clubs looked him over. He had a mission of revenge against Saugerties' strapping Mort Freligh and came through as he always does in the clutch.

The stolid right hander gave up four hits, struck out 10, walked two and started the game—ending double play. Freligh, one of the best high school flingers in the area, was almost as effective. He permitted four hits walked two, fanned seven but was nicked for timely blows by Charlie Grunenwald and Dick Dulin.

Grunenwald Stars

Kingston scored in the third when third baseman Reynolds bobbled Grunenwald's grounder then threw past first base. Grunenwald reaching second. Dick Dulin's single to right chased him across the plate for a 1-0 lead.

Two more Maroon tallies wrapped up the game in the fourth. Rienzo forced Bud Scheffel at second but after Ghear fanned, Chris Lay boomed a long double to center putting runners on second and third. Freligh walked Lowe loading the sacks and Grunenwald slashed two runs across with a solid single to left.

Saugerties' only threat came in the seventh when with runners on first and second and one out, Mains converted a tap to the box into a double play.

The game was completed in one hour and 15 minutes.

Huskies, Navy Crews Check In At Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 15 (AP)—Two of the three pre-race favorites will unrack their oars here today to begin final workouts for next Tuesday's Poughkeepsie regatta.

From the Far West will be the University of Washington, only undefeated shell entered in the Hudson classic.

And checking in from the East will be Navy, rated the section's powerhouse along with Cornell, and the boatload from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The final two western crews still to arrive are en route—California and Wisconsin.

Bears Score Win

California's Golden Bears stopped off at Lake Mendota, Wis., en route East and polished off Wisconsin's Badgers by an easy four lengths in a mile and three-quarter test yesterday.

Cal. was timed in 7:29.2; Wisconsin in 7:53.5.

It marked Wisconsin's second straight defeat by a far western shell. The Badgers lost by 5 and ½ lengths to Washington at Seattle recently. Washington, meanwhile, holds a four length decision over California.

The record of the Huskies was one reason an old Washington alumnus, Harrison "Stork" Sanford, the Cornell coach, picks them as the boat to beat. He rates California a breath behind, and also has high regard for Navy, which inflicted Cornell's only defeat this season, and Princeton.

Tigers Check In

Princeton, bossed by another Washington alumnus, Delos "Dutch" Schoch, checked in yesterday. Shoch ticked off Washington, Navy, Cornell and California as the threats.

Still another ex-Washington oar lugger, Charles P. "Chuck" Logg, Rutgers coach, had his men on the river. Logg said he had to put Randolph Janeway of Staten Island in the No. 3 seat of the frosh shell. Janeway had no previous racing experience but the move was necessitated when Eiven Nilsen of Princeton, N. J., hurt his back when the shell hit a piece of tree on the Raritan during a recent workout.

Chiefs Hold 3½ Game League Lead

(By The Associated Press)

The Poughkeepsie Chiefs are 3½ games ahead in the Colonial League baseball race but down below them the fight is getting more interesting.

The Chiefs profited by idleness last night while Port Chester and Waterbury were scoring victories that tightened the race for first division berths.

The Port Chester Clippers scored their third straight victory over Stamford, 7-2, to move into fourth place in the standings, a bare percentage point ahead of New Brunswick.

New Brunswick, like Poughkeepsie, was idle.

In the other game played, Waterbury whipped the second place Bridgeport Bees, 5-1, at Waterbury.

Poughkeepsie gained a half game by Bridgeport's loss. Third place Waterbury moved to within one game of the No. 2 slot.

Pitcher Dick Kasky won his fourth triumph for Port Chester against two defeats in setting Stamford down with eight hits, two of them home runs by Red McGreal and Sam Gaines.

Righthander Al Yaklich scattered seven Bridgeport hits to gain Waterbury's victory.

The animal's engineering work on Silver Bow Creek didn't fit in at all with city planning, so Jack Ritter and Louis Bugni hauled the beaver off the job with a garden rake and dumped him in a sack. For a time they entertained ideas of making him a pet but he fought that idea, tooth and claw, so they freed him in nearby hills.

KAA Baseball Coaches At Meeting Wednesday

Major League Roundup

By The Associated Press

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians and Boston Braves owe their lofty standing in the major leagues to their exemplary behavior after dark.

The Indians, leading the American League by three games with a .689 percentage, also own the best night game record of any club. Led by their ace, Bob Lemon, the Tribe has won eight and lost two arc light games for an .800 percentage.

The Detroit Tigers also show an .800 percentage, but have played only five night games. Tonight they play their first night game in history at home.

The Braves, tied with the New York Giants for first place in the tight National League pennant race, have won nine and lost four at night, a .692 gait. That is exactly 178 percentage points better than their daylight won and lost record. Only the Philadelphia Phillies, winners of eight of 11, boast a better record in the senior circuit.

Night Standings

Here is how the teams have fared at night:

American League—Cleveland 8-2; Detroit 4-1; Philadelphia 7-4; Washington 11-11, New York 2-3; St. Louis 6-8; Boston 2-3; Chicago 1-7.

National League — Philadelphia 8-3; Boston 9-4; New York 4-3; Chicago 2-2; St. Louis 9-10; Brooklyn 6-7; Cincinnati 2-5; Pittsburgh 3-7.

The best night pitcher in the majors has been Harry Brecheen. The Cardinal southpaw has won five and lost only one. His lifetime record under the lights is a sensational 34-10. He boasted a 29-9 mark prior to this season.

Sain Impressive

Other National League pitchers with impressive night game records this season include Boston's Johnny Sain (4-1), Brooklyn's Joe Hatten (3-0) and the Giants' Sheldon Jones (3-0).

George (Red) Munger of the Cardinals and Johnny Vander Meer of the Cincinnati Reds have been least effective under the lights. Each has lost three games without winning.

Lemon, the majors' biggest winner, has been the most effective pitcher in the American League at night. H has won four while losing one.

All Night Games

All today's games in the American League will be played under the lights. The Indians open a long home stand, meeting the Red Sox. The Tigers will play the Athletics in Detroit. The White Sox will be host to the Yankees and the Browns to the Senators.

Three of the National League's games are slated for tonight. The Giants hope to break their first place tie with the Braves at the expense of the Pirates in a game at the Polo Grounds. The Braves will have the same notion while tackling the Cubs in Boston. The Phillies take on the Cardinals in Philadelphia. The only game played in daylight is the one between the Reds and Dodgers in Brooklyn.

ERNIE DOWNER

Colonials Sign Downer For San Juan Contest

Big Ernie Downer, the Dutchess county ball hawk, was added to the Kingston Colonial roster yesterday and will be in centerfield Wednesday night when the Colonials battle the powerful San Juan Stars at municipal stadium.

Downer's acquisition followed quickly after the Colonials had handed Bob Glanz, of New Paltz, his release.

Tremendously popular with Kingston fans, Downer is regarded as the finest defensive outfielder in the area.

Manager Joe Hoffman expressed complete satisfaction with the move bringing Downer back to Kingston.

"Ernie is the best outfielder in these parts," the Colonial skipper said," and he will hit that long ball once in a while. He is extremely fast, a good team man and has always produced for us."

The signing of Downer was interpreted by Hoffman as a sign that Colonial City Baseball, Inc., is determined to have a winning team at the stadium.

"The fans gave us the green light Saturday night," Hoffman continued, "and we will make changes until we have a standout ball club on the field."

San Juan Tough

Warren Muller, the handsome southpaw who pitched a creditable game against the New York Cubans, will be the regular Wednesday starter from here on out.

The San Juan Stars who are here tomorrow night are making their first appearance in the United States. The team is a selected group of star ball players from the Puerto Rican Winter League.

Dick Seay, former Black Yankee and Brooklyn Royal Giant second base star, is manager of the San Juan brigade.

Foca Valentin and Juan Guilbe, two of the best pitchers in Puerto Rico are with the San Juan stars. Both are strong, well built, fast ball specialists. Guilbe defeated the New York Yankees in an exhibition game.

Other stars on the San Juan roster are Felix Andrade, Saturnino Escalera, Jorge Almagro, Juan Fernandez, Carlos La Nuze, Carlos Rivera, Rafael Vansquez, and Jose Fernandez.

Docusen Has Sugar 'Cased'

Chicago, June 15 (AP)—Shifty Bernie Docusen, a polished fighter at the age of 21, figures to "crowd" the welterweight crown off Ray (Sugar) Robinson's head Thursday night.

The New Orleans youngster, who has a six year age edge on the champion and has won 48 of his 50 pro bouts, says he will use this strategy:

"I won't let Robinson get set—I'm goin' to keep on top of him all the way—I can beat him by crowding him."

Both Robinson, beaten only once in 88 fights, and Docusen passed the routine physical examination yesterday in perfect condition for the scheduled 15 round title match in Comiskey Park.

Wiltwyck Motors Blast Chez Emile in City League Game, 11-4

Secreto Pitches Well as Chezzies Lose First Game

Wiltwyck Motors pricked the Chez Emile bubble in the City League yesterday with a decisive 11-4 victory that was accomplished without too much exertion.

Although Lefty Joe Jordan and Mac McElrath gave up only seven hits, they collaborated for nine walks and the Chezzies inner defense contributed six errors to Wiltwyck cakewalk.

The loss was the first in three starts for Chez Emile, while Wiltwyck posted its contending record with their third victory in five games.

Secreto Wins Third

Lefty Secreto pitched another good game for Wiltwycks for his second straight victory. Mr. Secreto is not one of the "name" pitchers in the circuit but his lack of publicity is not affecting his pitching effectiveness. He was touched for 10 safeties but was stingy with the punches and was accorded solid support in the field.

Meanwhile Wiltwycks' No. 5 batter was quite the hero of the occasion. He banged three singles in four trips and came up with two sparkling catches in the outfield. Tommy Carlino had a single and double, the only extra base hits of the game.

Hasbrouck, Schrowang and Secreto each hit safely twice for Chez Emile.

Crosby's Great Catch

The leading gem of the contest according to Secretary Paul Freer was a running catch in deep left center by Link Crosby. Secretary Freer notes that the bases were loaded at the time but neglects to reveal who hit the ball or how the bases became loaded.

The secretary's report says that "three hits, a walk, an error and a wild pitch netted two runs" for Wiltwyck in the first frame. They were temporarily stymied in the second frame and then sent runners across the plate like telephone numbers.

Darkness and confusion ended the contest at the end of the sixth.

Somebody has to crash the win column tonight when the victory starved West Shore and Frank's Sport Shop nines clash at 6:15. Big Jack Watzka is slated to pitch for Frank's.

Haver, Russell, Sutliff Week-end Stars; Schick Bogey Winner at Wiltwyck

Noisy New Yorkers

In 1947, the New York police department issued 228,927 warnings and recorded 51,372 arrests and summonses against people making too much noise.

Burt Haver, the Iron Man, "Fabe" Russell and Roy Sutliff were week-end blind bogey winners at Twaalfskill Golf Club over the week-end, while George Schick took similar honors at Wiltwyck with a net 73.

Mixed foursome play at both clubs scheduled for Sunday was cancelled because of rain.

The Passer and the Master

Principals in demonstrations clinics at the University of Mississippi coaching school were Charley Conerly, left, and Frank Leahy. All-America Conerly last fall set a new collegiate passing record with 133 completions for a percentage of 57.3. He will play under Notre Dame's famous coach with the All-Stars against the Chicago Cardinals in the All-Star Game at Chicago's Soldier Field in August. So will Johnny Lujack of the Irish and a lot of other stickouts.

Russell and Sutliff posted net 78s. The Saugerties bomber shot 88 with 10 handicap, while Sutliff shot 92-14—79. John, Schoonmaker had a net 71 with 28 handicap. Other winners were Lou Smith 80-6—74; and Walt Fitzgerald 88-14—74.

Haver's 74 captured net honors Sunday, with Ed Remmert's 72 leading the field in the scratch division. The winners in the Sunday event were:

Burt Haver	91	17	74
Dr. R. Ball	92	12	80
Dr. B. Dutlo	101	22	79
Judge Cashin	84	12	72
J. Van Gousle	74	2	72
E. Schirmer	84	12	72
R. Sutliff	87	12	75
A. Shufeldt	83	13	70
W. Fitzgerald	89	14	75

The regular June handicap tournament starts at Twaalfskill next Saturday and will be run in three divisions, A, B and C.

On Wednesday the Upper Hudson Valley Dental Association will hold its annual golf outing and dinner at Twaalfskill. The dinner will be served by Fred Von Ahnen and staff.

Schick Winner

George Schick won the Wiltwyck blind bogey on Saturday with a net 73. Mrs. Clarence T. Moss, the stellar woman golfer from Woodstock, was runnerup with 78.

Other winners included Erne LeFevre, Stan Winne, Dr. Saul Goldfarb, Bill Zwick, Ivan Whitmore, and Meyer "Mike" Levy.

A. J. Anderson put together a pair of 41s to lead the field with 82 low gross.

Wiltwyck plays its first inter-club match of the season at home Sunday against the powerful Red Hook swingers. Law Weatherwax, former Eastern Intercollegiate champion at Yale University, is one of the stars of the Red Hook squad.

Red Hook will bring a delegation of 25 players for the action scheduled to start at 10 a. m.

Katherine's Back

Katherine Rawls executes a graceful dive into a Miami Beach pool, where the versatile veteran is training for the trials which she hopes will take her to the Olympic Games in London this summer. The Ft. Lauderdale star, holder of many swimming and diving championships, will compete only in diving. She was a member of the U.S. women's swimming team in the Games in Berlin in 1936.

Lancaster's Aerie Has No Eaglets

Lancaster, Pa., June 15 (AP)—Here's a housing vote for the bird world. The nest of the lordly American Bald Eagle in Lancaster county is vacant.

The National Audubon Society reported today that for the first time since 1936 there are no eaglets in the famous Mount Johnson Island aerie below Lancaster in the Susquehanna river.

Dr. Herbert H. Beck of Lancaster, custodian of the society's sanctuary, said normally two and possibly three young eagles would be taking off about now for their first flight.

He figures either Mother Baldy died of natural causes or she was shot by a hunter who didn't know or didn't care that the national bird is under federal protection.

It would have to be mama, Dr. Beck said, for if anything happened to "Papa Baldy" another male would have moved in immediately.

Eagles, he added, live by "baronial rights" and once they select a nest they never use another, nor permit any other birds to settle within their chosen domain.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Name Troop Sites

The camp committee of the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America, is offering a contest for Scouts who name the three troop sites at its Camp Tri-Mount, East Jewett.

For the winning selections, Scouts are being offered a week at camp this summer. Elston Sport Shop, Kingston sports outfitter and Scout supply store, is offering one week in camp to the winning Scout in Kingston and vicinity, and Ralph's Men's Shop in Catskill, Scout supply distributor for Greene county, is offering a week in camp to the Scout in Greene county for the winning selection. Other Scout prizes will be awarded.

The contest is open to all registered Scouts and Senior Scouts of the Ulster-Greene Council, and the decision of the camp committee of the Ulster-Greene Council will be final.

To enter the contest, all the Scout has to do is to address a post card to the Ulster-Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America, at 260 Fair stret, Kingston, and on the reverse side put his name, hit unit number, and his three selections for the three camp sites. The contest will close on Friday, July 16. Announcement of the winners will be made immediately after the close of the contest.

Truman Pleads With People on Status of Congress

Aboard Truman Train en route to Kansas City, Mo., June 15 (AP)—President Truman campaigned today in the southwest with the plea that the people decide whether he or Congress is "wrong" on domestic issues.

"If I'm wrong," he said, "you will have a chance to attend to me later on. If I'm not wrong, you ought to attend to somebody else."

Mr. Truman challenged the legislators to stay in session until they pass price control, housing, federal aid to education and five other bills, in a talk at Los Angeles yesterday.

Back aboard his special train en route to Kansas City last night, the President said at San Bernardino, Calif., that he would "keep pouring it on Congress."

His remark was in response to a question from a crowd estimated by Police Chief D. G. Murdock at 10,000 persons.

Somebody presented the President with a supply of fresh eggs. He tied up the gift with his request for price control authority, saying "I appreciate those eggs. The cost of living has gone up."

And he added, "at least they weren't thrown at me."

"Throw 'em at Taft," someone shouted from the crowd.

"I wouldn't throw fresh eggs at Senator Taft," Mr. Truman replied, referring to the Ohio chairman of the Senate's Republican Senate Policy Committee and candidate for the G.O.P. presidential nomination.

At least six speeches from the rear platform of the presidential train appeared likely today as the President headed into Arizona and New Mexico.

Mr. Truman will meet Clinton P. Anderson, his former secretary of agriculture, today in New Mexico. Anderson resigned to make the Democratic race for the Senate in New Mexico. The train is due at Gallup at 3:30 p. m. (E.S.T.) and Albuquerque at 7:05 p. m. (E.S.T.), the latter for a 25-minute stop.

union at a stormy meeting last night in a two to one vote.

Curran said maintenance of the present status meant that union hiring halls would continue in operation.

The hiring halls, under which the union supplies its members to man ships, has been the core of dispute which resulted in a threat to strike on expiration of contracts today. Seven unions with more than 100,000 members are involved.

The operators maintain these halls violate the Taft-Hartley Law provision against closed shops.

The unions have insisted that the hiring halls be kept in operation until "competent judicial authority" rules on them.

The three unions named in Judge Clancy's order, affecting the east and gulf coasts, are the N.M.U., the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association and the American Radio Association, all C.I.O.

Other unions involved are the C.I.O. International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, the C.I.O. Marine Cooks and Stewards, the A.F.L. International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and the Firemen and Oilers, an independent group. These four operate on the Pacific coast as does the M.E.B.A.

G.A.O. officials told the committee $250,000,000 has been collected on this project already and $104,000,000 has been listed as overpayments but not yet collected. They estimated that $100,000,000 more may be "found as overpaid."

Short (R.-Mo.), an outspoken foe of compulsory military service in peacetime and ranking majority member of the Armed Services Committee.

Andrews has announced he will retire at the end of this session. Short is due to succeed him as chairman.

They have differed consistently on the conscription issue but have kept most of their clashes behind the committee's closed doors.

Despite the leadership's confidence of a speedy vote, there was one possibility of a delay. Rep. Powell (D.-N.Y.) served notice over the week-end that he planned to offer 31 civil rights amendments in an attempt to abolish all racial segregation in the armed services.

This maneuver could put off a final vote until tomorrow.

The debate climaxes a months-long argument that began March 17 when President Truman asked Congress for prompt action to build up the armed forces. His reason: To serve notice on Russia that it must halt its Communist aggression.

The Senate passed its draft bill only last Thursday, although the House bill has been waiting for Rules Committee clearance since May 7.

The clearance came yesterday on a 6-to-4 tally that found at least two opponents voting to give the House a chance to debate the bill.

The deciding ballot was cast by Rep. Harness (R.-Ind.), who told reporters he might speak and vote against the bill on the floor.

With him on the decision to permit House debate were Reps. Wadsworth (R.-N.Y.), Herter (R.-Mass.), Rizley (R.-Okla.), Cox (D.-Ga.), and Smith (D.-Va.). Opposing were Chairman Leo E. Allen (R.-Ill.) and Reps. Rich (R.-Pa.), Chenoweth (R.-Colo.), and Sabath (D.-Ill.).

Rizley also has opposed the draft but declined to say whether he would oppose the bill on the floor.

After Red Votes

Philadelphia, June 15 (AP)—Republican National Chairman Carroll Reece said last night President Truman's recent "I like old Joe Stalin" statement was a bid for the Communist vote. Reece, in a nation-wide broadcast (A.B.C.), said the President did not express "personal fondness" for Stalin because of any "real admiration for the Soviet Czar."

Public Officials Are Called Upon to Study Milk Supply

Dairy Leader Asks They Show Interest in Production, Not Just Hit Price

New York, June 15 (AP)—The head of two dairy co-operative groups said today public officials should "spend their time" helping establish a program that would preserve the production of milk as an industry.

The dairy official, Dr. Kenneth A. Shaul, Cobleskill, N. Y., testified at a U. S. Department of Agriculture hearing called to consider proposed milk price increases for the metropolitan area.

Two New York city officials protested the increases at yesterday's opening session.

"If I were a consumer," Shaul said, ". . . I would demand that my public officers waste no time on protests and complaints but spend their time rather in co-operating with the producing industry in adoption of a far-seeing program which will preserve the production of milk as an industry to serve adequately the needs of the people of the city of New York."

Shaul is president of the Schoharie County Co-Operative Dairies, Inc., and of the Mutual Co-Operative of Independent Producers, two of the producer groups seeking the price rise.

Dairymen, Shaul said, do not ignore the difficulties created for consumers by constantly increasing prices. But, he added, "the answer does not lie in impoverishing the dairyman by denying him a just price for his milk."

Shaul said the wholesale milk price for class 1-A production must be $5.90 a hundredweight (47 quarts) for July and August and $6.34 for the rest of 1948, or three cents above the Boston price, "whichever is higher," if farmers are to get an adequate return for their output.

Object to Price Rise

Consumers, political groups and a city health official objected to the proposed price rises yesterday, while spokesmen for farmers favored the boost.

The proposals would increase the milk price one cent a quart July 1 and another cent Sept. 1. Although there is some variation in the present retail price level, the lowest generally is 21 cents a quart.

The groups seeking the increase represent 45,000 milk farmers in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Massachusetts, who supply milk to the New York city area.

Production Costs High

Dr. C. L. Cunningham, agricultural economist at Cornell University, said dairymen are getting "the best milk price they've ever had." But he added: "Their costs have been even higher and their earnings low, compared to industrial workers." He estimated that the milk farmer earns about 53 cents an hour.

Mrs. Ruth Fuller of Copake, N. Y., who said she is a farmer's wife, said a substantial price boost is needed to keep milk from being diverted to Connecticut and the Boston milkshed area.

Dr. C. W. Swonger of Boston, an official of the New England Milk Producers Association, objected to the proposed price rises as "a serious threat to the maintenance of a proper competitive relationship between the New York and Boston markets."

New York City Health Commissioner Harry S. Mustard said he is "emphatically" opposed to a price increase because "this is a situation wherein one must make a choice between two interests, and the responsibility of the department of health is to the children and the sick of New York city."

Credit Fading

Kenneth Eldred of Bainbridge, N. Y., president of the Eastern Federation of Feed Merchants, cited farmer purchases of feeds "on time" as an indication that the farmers' cash position is growing less favorable.

Frank E. Snyder, president of the Metropolitan Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, Inc., said "young men are not going to put 80 hours a week into a farm unless there is money in it."

The producers seeking the increases are the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, Inc.; the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc.; the Mutual Cooperative of Independent Producers, Inc.; District 50, United Mine Workers, representing certain milk workers; the Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, and the Poland Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc.

Work Way Through Honeymoon

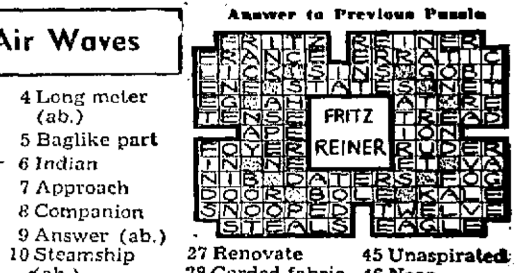

Irving and Lynn Barney, of Long Beach, Calif., have been on a honeymoon trip across the country for the past six months—and are getting paid for it. Right after they were married in January, he sold out his interest in a Long Beach filling station. They got jobs in Los Angeles as a team demonstrating a new car-painting mitt in various cities and have been traveling throughout the U. S. ever since. They're pictured in Cleveland, Ohio.

Tojo Verdict to Require Isolation of Six Weeks

Tokyo, June 15 (AP)—Preparation of the war crimes verdict for Hideki Tojo will mean perhaps six weeks total isolation for more than 100 clerical personnel and guards.

How complete the isolation will be was pointed up today. Workmen began installing barbed wire barricades and floodlights around two large houses.

The 85 typists and translators, plus books, servants and military police, will enter the area when they start work and will not be released until after the verdict is read.

A spokesman for the international tribunal, which heard the case against Tojo and 24 other top Japanese war crimes defendants, said he had no idea when work on preparation of the judgment would begin.

Honest, Doc, I Really Saw It

Doc, so help me, I saw it. I was in St. Louis, wandering around the St. Louis Zoo. And there was this orangutan, smoking a cigar. Not just chewing it, mind you. The beast had it lit and was nonchalantly puffing like a freight engine going uphill. And the director there, George P. Vierheller, says this big ape, Jerry, does it every day. Who's crazy, Doc, me or the monk?
